PREFACE

31388

THE Supplement to Granger's Index to Poetry and Recitations: 1919-1928 covers 126 volumes all of which are collections and compilations of recognized merit and standing. We have made no attempt to index small paper "Speakers" and other inconsequential publications of only trifling or ephemeral value

This book follows the general plan and arrangement of the original Granger's Index. Particular attention has been given to the section devoted to Special Days, Seasons, Months, Humorous and Inspirational Selections, pieces for musical accompaniment, Readings and Monologues. Librarians and teachers will find this section of special interest.

Any constructive suggestions for the improvement of future editions of Granger's Index will be cordially welcomed.

EXPLANATORY NOTE

The TITLE INDEX is the principal index and all references in the AUTHOR and FIRST LINES indices apply to it. A Key to Symbols has been provided, so arranged that the library numbers of the books can be inserted after the symbols.

In explanation of the arrangement of the TITLE INDEX, it is only necessary to say that a title indented under the main title entry is either the same piece under a different title or an abridgment or selection therefrom, as indicated.

Such titles as "Lullaby," "Song," "Sonnet," etc., are arranged by first lines, which are given to assist in identification.

The FIRST LINES INDEX includes the first lines of both the complete poem and any selections or abridgments from it.
